

Dear Friends,

This weekend the Church calendar takes a step aside in order for us to celebrate the Feast of the Transfiguration of the Lord. In this feast we recall that Jesus had been speaking to His disciples of His coming death as they all were journeying to Jerusalem. In order to show them some sign of hope, Jesus calls Peter, James and John to follow him up the mountain, where He is transfigured before their eyes. There He is, in His glory, speaking with Moses and Elijah, the giver of the Law and the great Prophet.

How do you see the splendor of Jesus, the Son of God, in your daily life? Do you look for the presence of Christ in creation, or in the faces of others? Do you experience the presence of Christ in your prayer, or in the quiet times of the day, or in the busyness of daily chores? Do you take time to speak to Jesus from your heart, in your own, simple words? Do you listen to Jesus responding to your prayers through the words of your family or friends?

May the Word of God grow in our hearts and in our lives today, transforming us from sinners to saints, so that we can be true disciples of Christ in all we do.

God bless you!
